RAILROADS

FIFTEEN HOURS AN EASY SPEED

Fast Time Made by Pennsylvania Special From Chicago to New York — Instances of Great Speed Attained.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 28.—Operating officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad system have demonstrated that they can cut down the running time of the "Pennsylvania Special" between New York and Chicago to fifteen hours, or one hour and five minutes to spare. A few days ago the "Pennsylvania Special" eastbound, pulled out of Chicago more than thirty minutes late. The next day was made up of forty-five minutes of time was lost and then the train went on its way until it reached the Mississippi River at Pittsburg, 108.4 miles. This was made up in 45 minutes. The actual running time being fifteen hours.

A train from Chicago to Pittsburg fifty-five minutes were made up. The schedule time between the two points is four hours and four minutes. This day the train was made up of time lost for this month, above which the train arrived at New York and Chicago on time each day, with one exception, which was due to a slight delay. At present there is no intention of shortening the time of this train, but if forced on the company, the schedules for a fifteen-hour run have been prepared and can be put in force at a moment's notice.

Several days ago, according to the statement made by Boyce to Pomeroy, he had given his word to "Happy" to return to him a home for his wife to return for his kindness. Boyce says, the boy stole from him. One of two pocketbooks missed from his wife's purse was found hidden in a coat pocket and Chester Street, and took the police to the hiding-place, only a few dollars were stolen.
